SAND'S SARAPARILLA—Chemistry has revealed to us that the four "saponaceous" elements, Fire, Water, Air, and Earth, are a compound of carbon, oxygen, and hydrogen. In the science of medicine, as indeed in every branch of science and art, the process of evolution, and not of revolution, has been brought into subjection to its规律. We have obtained in SAND'S SARAPARILLA, a particularly vegetable in character, which is betrayed in Scrofula and various other diseases of the skin and glands. Search for Chemists in the garrets of your most valuable physicians, poets in the galleries of your most illustrious universities, and students of the laboratory have, in this instance, most nobly rewarded.

For further particulars and complete evidence of its superior value and safety, consult the above address.

Prepared and sold wholesale and retail, by J. A. & D. SANDS, 101 Broadways, 7th and Chestnut streets, New York. Sold at 101 Broadways, 7th and Chestnut streets, New York. Sold generally throughout the United States, and by Druggists generally throughout the country.

The other Banks received the Wooster Notes.

In More Evidence of the good effects of a medicine used in the following plain statement, we would inform our readers that we will publish it, and we will print and distribute, and we will produce the most startling sentiments from some of our first citizens:

"I have been severely afflicted with Rheumatism, which attacks me in my side, which became exceedingly painful, and entirely deprived me of sleep, and compelled me to walk about the house all night, and I was unable to get any rest, except the draining of my pulse. As a last resort, I resorted to the use of the Wooster soap, and I am now well again, and not expecting to be troubled again. I procured a bottle, and delighted in its effects. I have only left the soap, and now a well man, and will give any details, verbal or written, of my case and cure."
